

RECTOR TO HAVE A NEW BUILDING OF EIGHT STORIES

Restaurant Will Close About
April 1 Till New $700,000
Structure Is Done.

An eight-story stone building to cost $700,000 is to replace the two-story building occupied as Rector's Restaurant, Broadway and Forty-fourth street. While the work is going on Rector's will go temporarily out of business.

Charles E. Rector said today that the new building would probably begin about April 1, and he expects the new Rector's to be ready for occupancy by Jan. 1, 1910. John Russell Pope, an architect, of No. 57, Fifth avenue, is now preparing plans.

The main dining room of the new restaurant will seat 120, while the present one only seats half that number. The second floor will be divided into private dining rooms, while the upper floors will be turned into bachelor apartments, the same as the upper floors of Seely's and Delmonico's. The kitchen will be in the basement.

Rector's is nine years old. Until two years ago Mr. Rector leased the building. He bought it then with the ground from the late Charles T. Barney for $500,000. It has a frontage in Broadway of seventy-five feet and in West Forty-fourth street of sixty-six feet. A square is cut out of the corner at Broadway and Forty-fourth street, and the building is set back for a distance of 100 feet.

Tannehill Seeks Escape from Them and "Designs" Women at Seashore.

Henry B. Tannehill, recently returned from Alaska, whose dinner to phantom guests in the Hotel Marlborough Christmas was mentioned in The Evening World, has come to Atlantic City to get away from beggars and promoters.

Tannehill left the city last night, after being besieged all yesterday by men, women and children, some of whom wanted financial assistance, while others had schemes by which they were sure he could turn his fortune of $100,000 into $1,000,000 in a few weeks.

Along with numerous letters with "business" proposals came some from women proposing marriage. That was too much for Tannehill, so he decided to seek peace in the seclusion of one of the many hotels at the New Jersey seashore.

Tannehill's dinner to phantom guests—the shades of his dinner at the Marlborough—is still the chief topic of discussion at the Marlborough.

THE Caldwell
Piano
at $185

Don't judge it by the instruments sold in other stores at the same price. It is absolutely without an equal at $185. It is made better than the average popular-priced piano, has a better tone, a better touch, and is more reliable in every respect.

The Caldwell is one low-priced instrument that you can buy with safety—with assurance that there will be no disappointment later on.
